

“AUTORRETRATO”

Douglas Maxwell

There are few things more exciting than a person with the courage to follow their dreams. Francisco Toscano is such a person.

When I first spoke with Francisco, he knew his greatest passion was singing and he wanted to share his voice with the world: At that point, however, he had never written any original music and the words he was singing were the words of others.

I encouraged him to start writing down his feelings and observations and we would use them as the basis of his original music. The words and music that you will hear on Francisco are truly his. They arose from his life and his deep feeling and sensitive soul.

I have worked with many gifted vocalists throughout my career and Francisco is one of my new favorites. I know you will enjoy his amazing range, clarity and vocal power. His subjects are heart felt and I applaud the honesty he has applied to his craft and his life.
